'matter is the most spiritual in the perfume of plants'

RUDOLF STEINER

BOTANICAL PERFUMES

miessence® Botanical Perfumes are hand-blended in the traditional artisan method of natural perfumery using rare and exquisite botanical extracts, absolutes and essential oils solely as their aromatic source. The entire cornucopia of aromatic plants is explored in our perfumes... flowers, fruits, blossoms, leaves, twigs, barks, resins, woods, roots, rhizomes and seeds are all utilised for a multifaceted aromatic experience. miessence® Botanical Perfumes are imbued with a depth of character lacking in synthetic perfumes.

APPLICATION

The sensual pleasure of performing the same ancient anointing ritual that has been part of the human experience for thousands of years creates harmony in our physical, mental, emotional and spiritual selves. For a lingering aromatic experience, apply your perfume to the body's pulse points: wrist, neck, cleavage and behind the ears. Our perfumes interact and blend with your individual body chemistry, to create your own unique fragrance that evolves over time.

STORAGE & PRESERVATION

The aromatic compounds in perfumes denature and break down if improperly stored in the presence of heat, light, and oxygen. Thus proper preservation of perfumes involves keeping them away from sources of heat and storing them where they will not be exposed to light. An open bottle will keep its aroma intact for up to a year. As the level goes down, the presence of oxygen in the air that is contained in the bottle will alter the perfume's smell character, eventually distorting it. Perfumes are best preserved when kept in their original packaging when not in use, and refrigerated at a relatively low temperature between 3-7° celsius. Although it is difficult to completely remove oxygen from the headspace of the flask, ensuring the flask is properly sealed after use will prevent it from mixing with dust, skin, and detritus, which will degrade and alter the quality of the perfume.
